MISS ROACH

Branksome continues to enjoy a wealth of after school activities as everyone who even casually looks at "The Slogan" can see. We play field, court, track and pool sports. We ski, we run, we power walk and we row. We paint, dance, sing, write, debate, act and play musical instruments; we journey to other countries, we enter academic competitions, we go to the theatre, we perform, we hear talks on many subjects (we even give some) and we go to many meetings. In other words life at Branksome has gone on this year very much as it has always done with verve and much success.

But I notice a difference in emphasis that has please me, a deepening awareness of the world beyond our family, friends and school - the start of our co-op education programme, the welcoming of student groups from Russia and Hungary, the burgeoning of green projects and the growing interest in the problems of those who are poor, desperate, old or disadvantaged physically or mentally.

Approximately thirty girls went every week to a soup kitchen, food banks, hospitals and day care centres. Huge numbers helped with the Terry Fox Run and the United Way, raised money for the Scott Mission and the preservation of rain forests, supported our foster sister in Haiti, sold tickets for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, helped with the Central Neighbourhood Christmas dinner and the Children's Aid Christmas Party and Carnival, performed for the patients at Sunnybrook, St. Michael's and Riverdale Hospitals, held food and clothing drives and, with their parents and teachers, built a nature trail through the Branksome woodlot. My list is not complete, I know. There is no group more active than our Environmental Affairs Club who run many programmes to recycle bottles, cans, cardboard and paper, collect batteries for safe disposal and collect lunch scraps for composting.

I admire all our students who get involved with the school, who contribute with such joy and make Branksome a fine place to be. But of no one am I more proud than of those students who work for someone or something beyond themselves and their own pleasure.

Excelsior, Branksome.

JUDY TJAN

The days at Branksome Hall are filled with challenges and amusement, with determination and pride. It is a school that has an enthusiastic student body, a dedicated staff and many valuable contributors. This is what sets Branksome high above all the others.

Red, green, black and white, these are the various colours of the school. They represent the cultural diversity within the student body. Many of these students are boarders. Branksome has approximately 80 boarders from all around the world from the West Indies to Hong Kong. Boarding is a great experience. It teaches one to be patient while waiting for the phone, understanding when there is a fire drill at 6:00 in the morning and it also brings you closer to a great bunch of girls.

These colours also represent the super spirit of Branksome Hall and are included in a cheer that can be heard far and wide at every competition. The amount of support the school receives from the staff and the students is tremendous. When you add Ribbit the Mascot, fun face paint, some great cheers and a roaring crowd you have got typical Branksome spirit.

All the different Branksome colours represent all the different opportunities the school has to offer each girl as well. The supportive and encouraging staff give us the chance to explore new ideas and express them. The exploration may be an artistic quest to discover new mediums to work in and the expression may be scientific by proving an idea through experiments.

Students are given the chance to become involved in the school athletically on a team or a club. Girls can try out for the volleyball team or join the recreational tennis club. Students are also encourage to take a stand by being a part of GAIA or exercise their ability to speak by joining Debating.

There is something for everyone at Branksome Hall, is a statement that seems to be mundane. However, everyone is given the opportunity to participate, whether it be on a sports team, in a club, or during a clan event. The list of ways to contribute is endless. I firmly believe that participation in the school will make student life more fun and rewarding.

Branksome Hall sets great challenges with its high academic standard. The school offers an unlimited amount of ways for everyone to become involved. It also shows an extraordinary amount of enthusiasm.

Tradition at Branksome will be carried on proudly. Red is for truth, green is for honesty, black is for justice, and white is for purity. These are the true colours of Branksome Hall.

Thank you for everything Branksome.

Each year the Slogan staff attempts to produce a book which best exemplifies the community of Branksome Hall, that is the activities the school participates in. Student involvement varies greatly, from academics, athletics, the arts, world affairs and local issues. These activities occur morning, noon, evening and include our weekends; we have done our best to portray these in a book of 187 pages. Each year the Editor and staff try to add something new and hopefully something which will excite the students. This is becoming difficult, because each year the students produce a book of greater quality. I do believe we have produced a book which will be an equal to the previous years and maybe even better. This year the Slogan staff decided to give the students a glimpse of Branksome's past. The yearbook contains photographs from dates as early as 1918.

I would like to thank everyone, and I have certain people to whom I would like to express a further appreciation. All the girls who were dedicated to the production of the book, the Slogan staff, you should be proud of your work. Mrs. Reid you have given us so much support and so much of your time the yearbook wouldn't have been possible without you, thank you. Miss Sime thank you for spending so many hours in the archives, helping me choose the photographs, and entrusting the Slogan with Branksome's precious records. Richard thank you for your extensive help with the creativity. Mr. Stevens your contribution of photographs was most appreciated.

Branksomites this is your book; it is a collection of your memories. We hope you will enjoy it now and in the years to come, when you remember your days as a student of Branksome Hall.

SPORTS BANQUET 1991

The sports banquet was held in June to show our appreciation to both coaches and athletes for all their hard work throughout the playing season. Each coach gave a short presentation about their team or club and awarded a most valuable, most improved and most outstanding member. Entertainment was provided by the Branksome dancers and Baton Twirler, Nikki Reindorf.

A special note of thanks to Mrs. "G" whose idea it was to initiate a junior school banquet.

A FINAL FAREWELL TO ...

MARY TASKER

Mary Tasker is retiring this June." The news provokes disbelief or cries of protest from the heart: "What? She only had a couple of terms in that beautiful new art studio!" Or, "She can't! My daughter would have had art with her next year!"

What Mary's retirement does NOT stir is a sense of the passing of an era. Because the qualities of her work--and life--are so thoroughly the ones we hope will shape the FUTURE: when our planet is given all the care it needs; when different people, races and cultures are celebrated rather than ranked; when we all use what we can find to create and to re-create ourselves. Mary Tasker has lived these ideals and brought them to Branksome for decades. SHE'S retiring, but her ERA is arriving.

It's not easy to get the facts of her years at Branksome from Mary. Against a backdrop of art materials, works in progress and junk-with-promise she herself has scrounged, curbside on garbage days, she absently recalls a few, but directs attention to a student's burgeoning sculpture, or out the window to Branksome's arboretum, focus of the Green Program to which Mary gave so much energy: planting, identifying, checking growth. "Here, let me show you..." she warms up. And she's into her interests, not her story: Branksome student, mother of two graduates, founding member (now Honourary Member) of the Parent's Association, creator of the Junior School Art Program, naturalist, birder, world traveller who brings the world to her classes. No wonder one student, asked by a new girl what Mrs. Tasker taught, answered happily, "Art--and--Everything!"

How can you retire from Everything? Maybe Mary can be persuaded to come back for Special Projects in the Junior School Studio she designed.

MRS. CHILTON

Chilly has always maintained that a happy child is one who lives and works within an orderly environment. For 15 of her seventeen years at Branksome, Chilly's environment, was 7R10..... The last door on the balcony! Behind that door not only was there an orderly environment but also, one filled with activity, fun and an enjoyment in the learning of mathematics.

Going down memory lane with Chilly, I asked her to recall a few happy events. Without hesitation these came to mind: the infamous/famous homeroom of 177, accompanying the grade seven trips to Quebec and Boston, the acquisition of Edward Shelburne Bear Esq., (the first of 72 North American bears in her collection), and the traditions which make Branksome unique: Installation, Carol Service and all the end of year events and ceremonies.

We too have fond memories of Chilly, who will ever forget her plea for pennies, her marvellous sense of fun and humour, her wonderful witticisms and as a raconteur..... She's the best!

The future holds much for Chilly, the completion of her degree in French beginning in September, photography, painting - (no, not by #!) water colour, travel particularly to the Antipodes, but most of all being able to spend time at home with Tigger, her furry, feline friend.

Chilly, you have many friends of all ages and from us all, we wish you a happy, healthy and active retirement.

PAT HUNT

Pat Hunt joined the school in March 1977 as secretary for the restoration fundraising. Three years later she became guidance secretary. After sending out transcript number one million and one, Pat has decided to retire. Her outgoing personality and her willingness to help students and the members of the guidance department have been much appreciated. We know that she is looking forward to spending more time with her family and our best wishes go with her.

JR. SCHOOL

MRS. PENNY

We have very quickly grown accustomed to our new home, Bett House, and February 4, 1992 marked our first birthday. This first year has seen many big events. the Opening, the spring planting day, the Barbeque, the construction of the native path, the Open House and much more. We have welcomed Mrs. Bincik, Miss Crawford, Mlle Lauzon, Mrs. Malone, Miss Hikida, Mrs. Schroeder and Mrs. Stulberg. We say good-bye in June to two well-loved teachers: Mrs. Chilton, and Mrs. Tasker. They have contributed immeasurably to the Branksome community and will remain here in our hearts. We also said a sad good-bye to Mrs. Plastina and our secretary Mrs. Young this year. What a time of change!

To Miss Brough and all the staff, my very warmest thanks for a successful year. And to you, the students - I am very proud of you all. Your clan chieftains have been powerhouses of good spirit, imagination and spunk - it's been great fun! To Gillian and Amy and the rest of the perfects - thanks for the skits and the caring.

Wise people accept change as a necessary and exciting part of life. Thank you all for managing this year's changes so well.

GILLIAN

WOW! What a fun filled, action packed year it has been. On the west side of Mount Pleasant, thrive the girls and teachers of the Junior School and without them nineteen ninety-one, ninety-two could not have been as memorable. With so much enthusiasm, who could complain.

The Junior School is so involved and energetic. Activities ranged from pep rallies, lip syncs, a talent show, lunchtime festivities, big and little sister program, fundraising week and grade dinners (with boys!!!). These activities brought the Junior and Senior school girls together. Without the smiling, dynamic faces of the girls from the Junior school, the fun could not have reached such a high.

But, none of these events could have happened without the help of many people. I would like to thank Miss Brough for her guidance, Vicki and the chieftains for their spirit and cheery personalities, Mrs. Penny, the prefects and, of course, all the Junior school girls, who made me feel so welcome.

Good luck next year!

Love,
Gill.

I'm walking through the halls of Branksome looking at the colourful carpet under my oxfords, holding my sweaty admission slip, reading 9:20, in my hand. Looking at my schedule, I realize Geometry is my first class.

I very slowly pack my books for the morning, then in very small, small, footsteps, I begin my journey to math class. Coming upon Mrs. Chilton's door, I realize we are doing angles and I have forgotten my geometry kit.

Looking through the door's window across the friendly faces of 7R12, I step away from the door. Suddenly I hear footsteps. Looking at the bristol board across from me, I realize it is open house.

What am I to do?!?

I lean against the door, sucking in my stomach. But I realize it is all over when the door swings open. I fall upon the floor, sweet faces of 7R12 look down at me and I hear the words ....

"Sweety Pie, what on earth are you doing?"

TO THE TUNE OF LITTLE MERMAID

Look at our class,
Isn't it neat?
Wouldn't you think our class is complete?
Wouldn't you think we're the class, the class who has everything?
We've got Jen, we've got V, we've got Willow.
We've got markers and pencils galore.
You want classmates?
We've got twenty.
But who cares? No big deal, we want more.
We are the best class in the school,
We are just soo cool, we're awesome, these halls
Wandering around in our, what do you call them? Roots shoes
Except for Meghan, Regan, Pippa, Ali and Larissa.
They all have loafers and Lia and Katherine have Harvards.
be de de de
These people tell us useless stories .. It's Isabelle, Suzanne and Sarah.
There goes Fiona and Nikki chit-chatting away again.
Rei talking in Japanese, SAWAYAKANINALU HITOTOKISAWHYAKANINAZUHETOTOKEY.
Veronica and Katie are wearing their socks again.
Betsy and Heather are wearing their weird hairbands.
And then there's our class.
But do not forget Ms. Malone, she is our teacher,
She is the best.

THE CLASS OF 8R7

As I sit here and watch all my friends,
I see Jordan and Adrienne sitting at the ends.
I peer to the right and who do I see
But Megan and Laura looking at me.
Nicole, Katie, Kelly and Sy,
I look at them and they say "Hi!"
Carolyn and Sarah have the same colour hair,
Orange is original ... but do they care.
Jennifer, Lindsay, and Vicki too,
Charmaine is the one who's pretty new.
I look both ways and who do I see:
Allison Murray and Alixe Paisley.
I look to the left along the floor,
I see Calin and Yasmin talking some more.
Annie is sick so we cannot say
What she is feeling at school today.
This is our class, it seems like heaven,
because we happen to be, 8R7.

ODE TO MADAME

8R9 will never be the same
Without you, Madame, our class will be lame
If you don't convince Frank to stay in Toronto
Then get a divorce and leave him pronto.
You are the best teacher, we depend on you
We'll be stuck with a substitute who's strange and new.
Madame, Madame - please don't go
If you move to Florida, you'll miss the snow.
Commute every morning, it's 5 hours by plane
If you leave us, we'll all go insane.
If you leave Toronto, what will we do?
We'll never be happy, we'll always be blue.
You have always been nice and so understanding
And hardly ever been mean and demanding.
Madame Plastina, you're so fine
Good luck and good wishes from 8R9

We had a ball. Due to the gale force winds and rainstorms that made their mark in the early part of the season, it took a while for the 13's tennis team to get going. We all played extremely well in our matches with BSS and St. Clements and won our games with them. We lost our match with Havergal by one game which went to deuce in the end.

Many thanks to everyone who came out to play. I think we all had an amazing time. Special thanks to Delayne Austin who subbed for us when we were lacking players and Mlle Popper for her support. Thanks to our awesome coaches, Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Hardie who were always there with bright smiles, encouraging pep talks and helpful tips on how to play the game. And thanks to an incredibly cute baby, Patrick Thomson, who always put a smile on everyone's face.

It was a terrific season.

The under 12 team finished fourth overall among the 11 competitors. Ataat Malick proved to be a natural; other strong runners in this age group were Jennifer Warwick, Ashley Gorrie and Eleanor Bothwell.

Jordan Bell was our most consistent runner on the under 14 team. Other strong finishers were Lindsay Cooper and Carolyn Lawrence. This team ranked fifth out of the 11 teams.

SOCCER

Soccer was very popular this year as 26 of us answered the call of twice a week early morning practices. We all learned new skills that we put to good use in our game. We had a great time visiting Country Day School, Bayview Glen and Havergal and hosted St. Mildred, BSS, Bayview Glen, Havergal, CDS, and St. Clements. As our skills improved so did our teamwork. We even put together a 4 game winning streak and finished with a very balanced 4-4-1 record. Fun was had by all and we look forward to next year.

I hope we can make some new stars shine in the future. Thanks Miss Olfert. Hope to see you all next year.

Ms. Medcalf and Mrs. Rosch have put together a club Creative Capers for grades 2 and 3. Creative Capers is held in the Grade 3 room on Monday. It is from 3:30 to 4:30. We either cook or make fun stuff. We've made mini pizzas, cards and nature collages so far. I think Creative Capers is one of the most fun clubs in the galaxy.

Have fun!!!!!!

SPORTS CAPTAIN

Up to now, this year has been overflowing with fun activities and sports for all ages.

Last year we did not have access to the lower field in the fall season due to construction. The sport that was mainly affected by this inconvenience was soccer.

Fortunately, this year we were able to have both a soccer club and team. On behalf of Branksome Jr. School, I would like to thank Mr. Earle who volunteered his time to coach this year's soccer players. He accepted everyone and tried very hard to be fair, making sure each girl had an equal opportunity to play in the games!

I would have to say this year's fall and winter terms were full of enthusiastic, spirited and determined young girls striving to reach their goal in being the best that they could be! Girls from grades 1-8 showed the best of their abilities in the following sports: swim team, cross-country, basketball, aerobics, soccer, badminton, volleyball and primary games. Each competitive sport had its ups and downs, but in the end Branksome came out number one, for each member managed to reach her goal!

This year's clan chieftains have started off the year with a BANG!! Everyone is having a ball participating in the unique contests the chieftains stir up!! They even have the clan mothers psyched up for their next contest!
I am really pleased to see the large number of girls that come out to participate in the weekly clan games. Once they step foot in our new gym they become full of clan spirit and start cheering at the top of their lungs! Even girls that aren't on the designated clans come out to cheer and have loads of fun!

This year has seen a dramatic increase in the physical activity of students at all grade levels. It probably has something to do with the fact that many classes are constantly challenging one another to match their performance levels.

Miss Crawford and I are pleased to see the level of enthusiasm increase as the year goes by. We're looking forward to the spring term to continue this trend!

SLOGAN REPS

"Deadlines, picas, rulers, croppers and drawings", all words you hear as you're working on the Slogan. Dates ran through our heads as we tried to get everything done.

Working on the Slogan this year was very challenging and it was fun, too. We couldn't have done it without Mrs. Hockin. She guided us along and made sure we made our deadlines, sometimes, helping us finish off some pages.

We would like to thank the many people who contributed items. All the primary students sent in paintings and the grade 7 art classes produced drawings which fill many empty spaces. A number of grade eight students contributed snapshots which were appreciated as well. Ms. Medcalf, along with other teachers, supplied many of the candid shots found on these pages. Several home rooms created special items for their class page. Thank you all.

Working on the Slogan this year was fun. We put in many hours in the morning, lunch and after school and we hope you like the final result.

Keep well the road

MACNEILL HOUSE

Please allow us to introduce ourselves, we are the champions of MacNeill house. It's not easy being green, so we're just looking for fun and feeling groovy. We're here for a good time not a long time, so express yourselves! This wild world is almost unbelievable but this is the time to remember because it will not last forever. If they stop playing that funky music we just might get some sleep tonight. You can tell by the way we walk these halls that we're "too sexy" to go to breakfast. Don't worry about a thing 'cause life is a highway. Winter, spring, summer or fall, all you got to do is - dance now!

May the wine of friendship never run dry, from your two favorite jokers - Claudine and Deanna (everything we did we did for you). "When I'm all alone in the rain or snow, I'll remember you. There's some people that you don't forget. When the roses fade and I'm in the shade I'll remember you."

A GOOD RECIPE FOR A PERFECT RESIDENCE

Take seventy-seven hardworking and fun-loving girls from many parts of the world which include: Abu Dhabi (United Arab Emirates), Bahamas, Barbados, Canada, Dominica, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Jamaica, Japan, Korea, Montserrat, Nevis, Philippines, St. Croix, St. Kitts, St. Lucia, Singapore, Spain, Switzerland, Taiwan, Trinidad, Tobago and Turks and Caicos. This mixture adds many flavours to make our Residence most interesting, and provides for an excellent Residence Council under the leadership of Amy Williams, our Residence Prefect.

Add nine responsible and caring Residence Dons.

Then stir in two nurses who provide TLC and look after our health needs, and finally, an excellent topping of maintenance, housekeeping and kitchen staff.

And what you have is a Residence of which I am very proud to be the director. I would also like to thank not only you, the girls, but also the Residence dons, the Health Centre, the Housekeeping Staff, the Maintenance Staff, the Kitchen Staff, the office staff, the Administrative staff, the teaching staff, the Parents' Association, and last but not least Mrs. Lumsdon for all her help and support.

I have such happy memories of this past year; for example, our theme dinners, activity weekends, and day-girl-boarder exchanges. I was so pleased to meet many of the day girls who participated in these exchanges.

I wish you all a happy holiday, and I look forward to the return of many of you. To the Graduating Year, I extend my very best wishes . You have provided good leadership, and MacNeill House ran smoothly under the headship of Claudine Giroux.

Thank you for a good year!

Nancy Northgrave

MISS NORTHGRAVE
DIRECTOR OF RESIDENCE

MRS. LUMSDON
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

What can I say to seventy-seven wild and crazy girls about boarding that they don't already know? Well, to begin with, I would like to thank each and everyone of you for making my job easier and my last year at B.H. the best! Secondly, I would like to remind you of all the fun things we've done this year: UCC Barbecue, Halloween with SAC, theme dinners, our canteen and the pop machine, the activity weekends, ski day, Christmas, the formal, the after formal gossip, the Straw and much much more. Thirdly, I would like say how honoured I am to work with a "most excellent" Residence Council: Judy Tjan, Claudine Giroux, Deanna Wolfe, Jill O'Neill, Manju Chandiramani, Christina Gilpin, Nicole School, Alexa Wilson, Diana Martin. Lastly, thanks to Miss Northgrave and Mrs. Lumsdon for their endless energy, help and patience with me.

Girls, I want you to know in Residence there's a time for stress and a time for laughs; a time to be together and a time to be alone; a time for work and a time to play.

I'll miss you all-even Select Sandwich.
With love forever,

Amy

P.S. "I am my own personal being. I let in who I want to be let in. It may not mean much now but I hope it means much later. I'm glad I let you in."

P.P.S. Honestly girls, read your handbooks!

SPORTS

BASEBALL SIXTEENS

The 16's softball season deserves a home run cheer. It was great! With the help of some expert, Blue Jays calibre coaching by Mrs. Shaver, the BH Angels were guided through a fun and successful season. It included award winning hits which were celebrated by a cheerful run around the bases and more. High fives to the team and thanks to an amazing coach!

Coach: Mrs. Shaver.

Front (l-r): Jill O'Neill, Judy Tjan, Eiko Kawai.

BASEBALL FIFTEENS

This year was a good one for the Branksome baseball team. We won some and lost some, but we still had fun. We played many games against the different schools, winning against St. Clements and Holy Trinity but losing against B.S.S. and Havergal.

Coach: Mrs. Jennings.

Back (l-r): Amy Satterthwaite, Kendall Anderson, Erin Grimes, Amanda Taerk, Abby Herzig.
Front: Robin Stewart, Jennifer Bishop, Susie Clappison.
Absent: Jacqueline Bonne, Denise Giroux, Rebecca Hare, Lisa Mendleson.

Back (l-r): Keely Colcleugh, Claire Sturgess, Kim Graydon, Andria Young, Julie Ross.
Front: Sasha Velikov, Maija Palkeinen, Jessica Smith, Lynne Bradley.

TENNIS SIXTEENS

This year the 16's tennis team had a really great time. Even though we didn't win all of our games, we had lots of fun and improved our game, and that's what counts! We played in the Ragedy Ann tournament at Havergal and did quite well. Thanks to Mrs. Jennings who was a fabulous coach and always there to cheer us on.

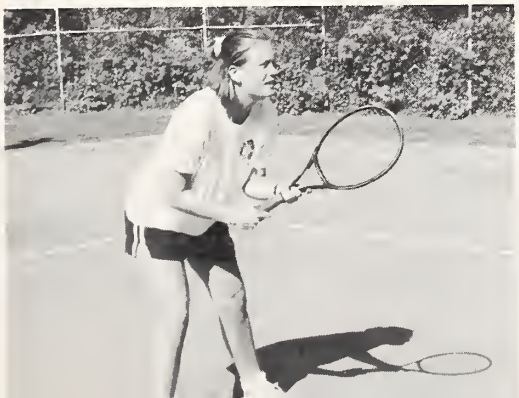
Coach: Mrs. Jennings.

Back (l-r): Leith McKay, Jodi Sharp, Emily Caplan, Jen Drinkwater, Mrs. Bennetts.
Front: Claudia Nugent, Devon Domelle, Erinn Thompson.
Absent: Alexis Ellis, Julia Marston, Katie Warren, Laura McKinnon, Manju Chandiramani, Lauren Hayward.

TENNIS FIFTEENS

Mrs. Bennetts led a super team with lots of spirit, enthusiasm and skill this year. With great weather we were out on the courts playing at least twice a week. We had three wins as we battled against the other independent schools in Toronto. It was an awesome year and hope to see everyone out on the courts next season!

Coach: Mrs. Bennetts



SPRING SOCCER

Once again, the soccer team had a very successful Spring Season. With fanfare and flair, we triumphed in the regular season going undefeated in 8 games. Unfortunately, in the play-offs we lost a close game to our long time rivals B.S.S. Still, it was a great season, thanks to Paula's terrific goaltending, the hard work of our defensive squad, the passing and goal scoring of our halfbacks and forwards, and of course, the incomparable coaching of Mr. McVay.

Thanks all! It was a great soccer year.

Kristen Bear

Back (l-r): Anna Russell, Katie Earle, Jennifer Lambert, Sarah Warrick, Andrea Rogers, Sarah Frizelle.
Front: Kristen Bear, Amanda Case, Tracey Ferriss, Lynn Liscio.
Absent: Paula Schutz, Denise Liscio, Tina Stephen, Sarah Parkinson, Christina Tawil.

SPRING TRACK & FIELD

Take a bunch of keen athletic Branksome gals, a challenging 9 hour / week workout schedule, sweat, speed, agility and determination and you have got BH Track and Field 1991. With great performances in ISAAG, TDs and Metros it was truly a successful year. Six competitors made it to OFSAA in Sudbury, Ontario (quite a feat in itself) and speedster Sarah Hunter received a Bronze medal in the 3000 m. Special thanks to coach and friend Jill Woolley who helped to make the BH track & field team what it is! The Branksome team certainly lived up to its reputation as tough competition this year. What will 1992 bring for these athletes? Underwear shorts and aerodynamic bodysuits? Just wait and see .....

Nat Welsh

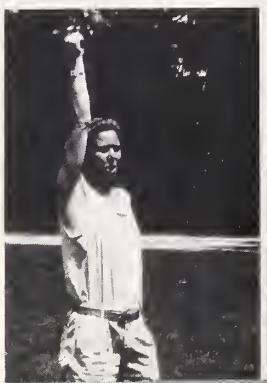
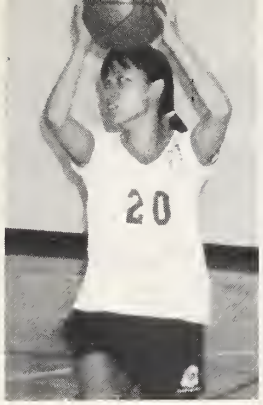
Branksome's Bear a scoring machine: Kristen Bear makes it look so easy. The 17-year-old sharpshooter, this has made her indispensible to the success of the Branksome Hall high school girls' soccer team.





A BEAR ON ATTACK: Branksome Hall's Kristen Bear has a knack for scoring goals in TDCAA girls' soccer. She had three in a 6-2 win over Bishop Strachan.

Back: Christina Farkas, Erin Dempsey, Danielle Paterson, Talei Kunkel, Christina Fung, Mrs. Jennings.
Middle: Sarah Bright, Shan Hui, Hilary Burt, Andrea Macdonald, Julie Ross, Wendy Franks, Jill O'Neill.

BASKETBALL SIXTEENS

The 16's basketball team had a good season this year. With only five players from the previous year, the new players adapted very well. Our results improved throughout the season and we managed to tie our rivals Havergal which was probably the best game of our season. We are looking forward to a good year next year, with 11 out of 12 players returning.

Thanks to Mrs. Jennings (Parker) for devoting all her time and effort to us, it was very much appreciated.

Jill O'Neill

Back (l-r): Karoline Copping, Denise Giroux, Joanne Wappler, Jen Reid, Radhika Sahgal, Alex Hein, Erin Grimes.
Front: Eva Perez, Maria Gadea, Seema Singh.
Absent: Alex Sainsbury, Jacqueline Sharpe, Allie Ortved, Jane Isbister, Megan Hewings.

BASKETBALL FIFTEENS

This year was not the best of years when it came to winning. We had a great time and really improved. We won our last two games. Thanks a million to Mrs. Glennie who did a great job in coaching our team. Our only hope is that next year's team will have as much spirit as we did.

by: Denise and Erin

CROSS-COUNTRY

Once again, x-country season has come to an end. A successful T.D.C.A.A. overall win enabled our midget junior and senior teams to compete at O.F.S.A.A. in Barrie. Our senior team placed an outstanding fourth, missing third place by sixteen points. Sarah Hunter finished fourth and continued her usual strong finish at the Nationals in Halifax by placing tenth. Congratulations everyone! Thanks to Ms. Graham's bake off, Motley Crew, Brookes Brothers and of course the big chief's late night pep talks.

Fiona Cameron

Back: Erin Boake, Meredith Fowlie, Nat Welsh, Heather Graham, Vanessa Cameron.
Front: Wendy Franks, Leigh Griffiths, Steph Welsh, Amy McKay, Sarah Hunter.

FIELD HOCKEY

The field hockey team had an amazing season in 1991. We were unbeaten in our league and therefore the Champions! Even B.S.S. -- our archrivals had to be awed! The team also played in two metro wide tournaments (complete with torrential rains and sub-arctic temperatures) and did really well. The team would like to thank Mrs. Bennet for her hard work and all the people who came down to cheer us on. Good-bye and good luck in 1992 from Nancy, Bettina, and I.

We have had one of our best seasons ever! The Branksome Hall soccer team rose to the top of the league, and dominated the first place position all season. All our hard work paid off, when we won the finals. To top it all off we slaughtered BSS not once, but twice! It might have been those lunchtime tapes that enhanced our talents. But, I think it was the Branksome spirit that gave us our stamina. Excellent work girls; spring will be even better! Thanks Mr. McVay (stress case) and don't forget "Walkies"!

TDCAA TENNIS

SWIMMING

Congratulations Branksome! This has been a great year! Your team spirit and enthusiasm are by far the best out of all the schools. Even though we missed the Bishops Cup by one point, we are all still champions. Don't worry, next year is a whole different year. Everybody will for sure be riding your waves. Your encouragement has helped me as swim captain this year and the best of luck to the team and captain next year! Thanks Mrs. Lumsden, you have been great through the years too!

SYNCHRO

This year there are many new faces involved in the synchro team and club at Branksome. The Branksome Hall synchro'ers are busy gearing up for the annual synchro show in May and the Junior and Senior teams are preparing for the ISAAG meet in March. Many thanks to Mrs. Lumsden for her never ending supply of noseclips and for always being there when we need her! Practice your synchro smiles girls!

16'S VOLLEYBALL

The 16's volleyball team is reaching for the top. It is made up of two talented groups of girls who are filled with great spirit and determination. It is a team that has a zest to win (and eat; how about some Smarties Mrs. Woolley?!).

The warm-ups during practice are gruelling but in the back of your mind you know the effort is worth it. "We may not overpower our opponents but we can outsmart them". Through a lot of hard work the 16's team has grown to be strong and competitive. Mrs. Woolley, all we can say is thank you. You are the best coach.

Thanks for everything guys, I've had an unforgettable time. Best wishes to the 16's volleyball team next year.

Yours truly, Judy

Radika Sagal, Leigh Pollard, Stephanie White, Fiona Bruce, Leigh Godbold, Tita Bicardi, Geeta Saini. Ali Ortved, Jackie Sharpe, Hannah Cho, Heather Fritzley, Seema Singh, Jane Isbister.

15'S VOLLEYBALL

The 1992 15's volleyball team is off to a great start. Where improvement has been needed it is being achieved, because of those early morning, lunch and after school practices. Now, with the essential bump, volley, set, serve and spike in fairly good form we are sure to beat our opponents.

We have won our first 3 games and we are gaining confidence, even though 3 of our teammates have injured fingers. Thank you Mrs. Jennings for your patience, time, and coaching, we think you are great.

Jane Isbister

16'S BADMINTON

Congratulations to the badminton team. We had an exceptional year! Because of the experience of the "old players" and the enthusiasm of the newcomers we have defeated some of our toughest competitors. The traditional spirit of Branksome athletes was present at practices and during our long-lasting games. Thanks to Mrs. Bennett and Miss Mitchell for their continuous support. Good luck in the years to come!

The Leafs, the Jets, the Oilers and the Branksome Hall All Star hockey team! We had an exciting season from Sarge Jr., to scoring (our first goal) on Valentine's Day. YIPA! Merci beaucoup to our dedicated and effervescent coaches Colle, Mills, Cheevers, Meehan and Glennie. Remember to always cock your wrist, stick 'em, check them into the boards and take slapshots from the blue line!

SKIING

Gill Collins, Ellie Hawke, Jessica Cotton, Leith McKay, Sarah Bright. Subs: Ginny Clark, Ainsley Deluce, Coach: Barbara Glennie.

The Branksome Hall ski team had a great season! The first week of January there was an invitational meet hosted by Slayner Collegiate at Blue Mountain-Collingwood. The team placed second out of 15 other teams from the Toronto/Georgian Bay areas. Leith McKay was first in a field of seventy five racers. The T.D.C.A.A. meet was held on February 6 at Mansfield Ski Club and we won! Gill Collins was first in Slaloms & Giant Slalom, Leith McKay second in both disciplines. The team moves on to O.F.S.S.A. on February 24/25 at Devil's Glen in the Collingwood area.

For many girls at Branksome the school day does not begin at 8:40 nor does it end at 3:30. For some Branksomites the day begins out on the open water of Lake Ontario at 5:30 AM and for others the day isn't over until 9:00 at night when the last lap of a 1500m race has been run. For still many other girls the school week is not 5 days but rather 6 days long as most of Saturday is occupied by a volleyball, basketball, badminton or field hockey tournament or a regatta in Boston or a provincial Cross-country meet. All of these girls who devote part of their day to playing on a team or who give up their lunch hours to join an aerobics class or who volunteer to help score at an afterschool enthusiastic game, are a very important part of Branksome.

During my years at Branksome, sports have become an increasingly large part of my life. This year, as Sports Captain, I was pleased to be made more aware of the fact that this is true for many girls at BH. It will be hard for me, at the end of the year, to hang up my Branksome singlet but I know that I will always think back fondly to my days of competing for Branksome and will also think with appreciation of the confidence our school has given me in my sport and the great friends I have made on the teams of which I have been a part.

I hope that you will all take the time, while you are at Branksome, to play on a team or join an athletic club as you can only gain from the experience. I also hope that everyone will continue to make a point of supporting all the Branksome teams because we should all feel proud of the fact that we seem to excel in every sport that we do.

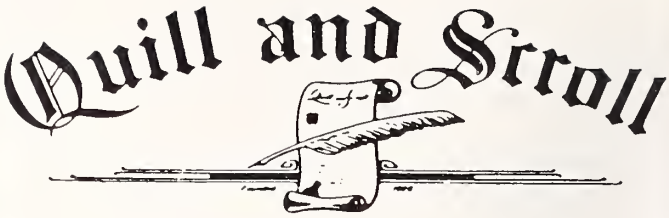
CLUBS

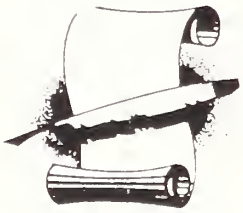
THE ARTS

MUSES NEWSLETTER



The aim of the Heads of Drama this year was to unite the Music, Fashion Arts, Art and Drama Departments. One way to achieve this goal was to produce a newsletter that would keep Branksome up to date with the Arts. Muses News was the culmination of these efforts. Each issue was the effort of not only the girls pictured above, but also several other girls. I thank each and every one of them for their assistance in the creation of Muses News.

Meredith Wynn



WRITING CLUB

Once and for all, we'd just like to clarify exactly what writing club is (or, more specifically, what it isn't): it is not an opportunity to catch up with your pen pals in Greeley, Colorado, nor is it the time to get help on your English essay. We have no opinion on calligraphy, and handwriting is about as important to us as olla-podrida (not that olla-podrida doesn't have its merits).

We are a small and thriving group of poets, authors and appreciative observers. We read, we write and we have animated discussions on the finer arts (we also eat, sleep and breathe, but that sounds less exciting in a write-up).

A special thanks to Mrs. Fabian, our fearless leader, for pushing us further than we thought we could go.

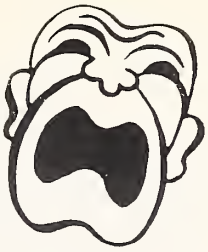
Lynne

KILT PRESS

The Kilt Press has been extremely busy this year meeting the deadline for a bi-weekly issue. To make issues more enjoyable, a slightly different approach was made. Numerous artwork, clip art, short stories, and controversial opinions were added to make it more interesting. For the Christmas issue, a tabloid size paper with a numerous variety of articles and opinions was published. Besides rushing around madly to get the work done on time, the Kilt Press staff enjoyed the production and the success of the new edition on tabloid size newspaper.

Lydia Lee

DRAMA EXECUTIVES



Well fellow "techies", it seems that we have successfully completed yet another year. It hardly seems possible that we have helped with the grade 9 play, put on our "On Broadway style" musical Bye Bye Birdie, had Arts Week and lived to tell about it. On behalf of Meredith and myself, I would like to thank everyone for all of their time and energy. We couldn't have pulled it off without you. We will miss you all next year. Meaghan and Nicole, keep the flame and don't let anyone forget the techies or the Drama Executives of '91-'92.

Nicole Cozier

GRADE 9 DRAMA

THE MADWOMAN OF CHAILLOT

LUNCHTIME THEATRE

If at lunchtime you hear loud shouting, screaming, laughter, or even crying, don't worry, it's just lunchtime theatre. Twice a week we meet and work with improvisation sketches and theatre pieces such as plays by Sam Shepard. The goal of the group is to provide a place for people interested in the theatre to expand on what they already know (and hopefully learn something new). "To be or not to be" is one way of putting it; but we the lunchtime thespians ask ourselves "to be oneself or to be someone else", that is also the question.

Liz Pounsett

DEBATING

You'd never guess it from our picture, but there were actually quite a lot of us! I guess we're just the shy, quiet types that only express ourselves in flashes of brilliance.

Thank you to everyone who worked hard to uphold our fabulous debating reputation. Congratulations to all the girls who went to tournaments and for everyone who got to experience the wonderful world of inter-school debating. It's nice to know that there are people out there who are prepared to yell and scream on just about anything!

Thank you Mrs. Zommers and Mrs. Brown, for all your X-country running. You were the backbone, and more often than not, the spine that kept us together.

Lynne

OPHELEO

The Opheleo society has been very busy this year. We had a huge number of energetic and excited girls always keen to help out. We raised $1000 for Youth Challenge International with the women of GAIA. The holiday season was very exciting from gala dinners, to dressing up in costumes at City Hall, to wrapping presents for the United Way to serving turkey dinners at Central Neighbourhood House. The Children's Aid Carnaval was amazing and the various food and clothes drives were excellent. Thank you to everyone who helped this year. We made a small yet significant contribution!

You are all Stars!!

VOLUNTEERS

This year the volunteer club, which coordinates all long term volunteering expanded by leaps and bounds thanks to the work of Mrs. Mustos and the enthusiasm of Branksomeites. Come rain or shine, kilt-clad volunteers could be seen helping everywhere from hospitals, to food banks, to animal clinics, to hostels, to nursing homes. In fact, at times we had more volunteers than volunteer placements. These girls gave up countless hours of their time and tons of their energy trying to make a difference and they did! So be proud of what you've done, but remember, we've miles to go yet! Thank you.

Bettina Polydor

GAIA

Gaia is a club where students get together to organize events to show their support for the environment. We have had numerous cleanups of the forest by the lower field, as well as helping the Evergreen Foundation plant trees. We put on a "Costa Rican Rainforest Week" to raise money to preserve the rainforest. We have circulated numerous petitions to send to the government. Speakers have come in to talk about environmental issues. Biodegradable products and material Christmas bags have been sold. BHS is also a part of ISEA (Independent Schools Environmental Alliance). We have done all of these special events as well as everyday composting, paper, can, bottle, and cardboard recycling.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Public Affairs is a group of students who want to learn more about various issues and aspects of society. Public affairs broadened in ever expanding horizons once again this year to include not only student conferences and lunchtime speakers, but also an Amnesty group and student questionnaires.

This year has been a successful and enjoyable one for all aspects of Public affairs. Amnesty joined a student network and got to work writing letters opposing human rights violations all over the world. A number of girls actually participated in a variety of student conferences, and speakers came to Branksome to discuss a variety of issues including prejudice in society, AIDS, and street kids.

Thanks to Mrs. Marshall, our staff advisor, and all who participated this year! "Can anything be more absurd than keeping women in a state of ignorance?" -M.W.

LIBRARY CLUB

The Library Club has been very active this year: we have helped the librarians by shelving books, taking care of magazines, checking in returned books, and helping people use the library. We are always here and ready to help.

Buy-A-Book for Branksome in November was a success, as was our second annual book fair.

Socially, we have had get-togethers every two weeks. Our Christmas party was extra-special, with homemade lasagna and numerous treats.

Thank you for a rewarding year, Library Club! Good luck in the future.

COMMUNICATIONS CLUB

Communications Club ... Ahh ... What a year, what a club, what an incredible amount of uninterpreted fun! This is it chicas - the party's over!! Every morning you worked those muscles setting up chairs, pulling out the piano, and pulling down the screen ... What better way is there to start off the day? You were relied on, and you came through! Thanks everyone - Wendy, Sara B., Michelle, Sasha, Hilary, Manju, Helen, Jeanette, Steph, Meredith, Lydia, Lisa + Julia - I couldn't have done it without you!

BETA KAPPA

The social season began this Fall with the Rout, which was held on October 26. This was Branksome's first dance of the year and it was a great success. With the help and support of the Beta Kappa Committee, everything ran smoothly and we were able to raise almost $2000 for Charity. Everyone wore creative hats in order to support the theme which was "Hats Off to the Rout".

Branksomites were also able to "dance the night away" at several Independent Boys' Schools throughout the Season.

The New Year saw a new level of excitement as girls in Grades 11 through 13 prepared for the Formal. This year it was held on February 29 at the Arcadian Court. Everyone had a wonderful time. Romance was in the air for some!

The finale to the school year was the Strawberry Festival which was held in May. This was a semiformal event for all girls from Grade 9 to Grade 13. A special thank you goes to the Senior Division Class Presidents who helped organize the evening.

Branksome has given me a great scope on life. The friendships I have made and the support I received this past year as Head of Beta Kappa have provided me with memories I will never forget. Beta Kappa "groupies" you are the best (K.W.). Thank you Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Young (my Staff Advisors) for standing by me.

Remember ... "Everybody dance now!"

CHAMBER CHOIR

Hidden deep within the choir, lies a group of girls that we call the chamber choir. Although we are a small group, we have had a very fulfilling and interesting year. We have performed in carol services and in events at schools in Philadelphia. We have had fun jamming sessions on buses and at lunchtime stress sessions. This year there has been a good group of girls to work with and we can look forward to seeing many new faces - and old "redones" - next year. Thank you Mr. B for putting up with our "cold magnet", our gazing out the window and our piano talk! Thanks for a great year! I'm going to miss you!

Sarah Kellie

JAZZ CHOIR

Every Tuesday at 3:30 (and some lunches) the Jazz Choir practised their shoo-bee-doo-wap-da's and doo-doo-doo's. There were 10 girls (when we were all together) from grades 9-13 and Miss Olfert was our piano Maestro and conductor. We sang a wide variety of songs but none of them compared to Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire (how's that for cheese, girls?) We performed at the Children's Aid Christmas Party and at our school concerts. We all had a groovy time and would like to thank Miss Olfert for a jazzy time.

CHOIR

Ba Bay Bee Bo Boo ... Choir this year was awesome. Christmas was our busiest time - it started off with a bang (Hmmmm) at T.C.S. (?) at the beginning of December. Our own carol service was a huge success, as always. The 5 fun and action-packed days in Philadelphia in April were incredible! It's true - the fun never stops when you're in the choir! Thanks to Mr. Bickle (and his adorable children) and all the choir members for everything. Red ties - we'll miss you next year.

CONCERT BAND

With Mrs. Reynolds at the front, her hand moving in 4/4 time, she says "Now!". This excited exclamation is followed up by silence. "Trumpets, that was your entrance! Try again". This time, the trumpets come in. The flutes start a perfect 8th note run 2 bars early. Oh well, we call this improvisation. So far, the clarinets are doing fine and Mrs. Reynolds breathes a sigh of relief when the baritone hits her high note, but unfortunately the saxes are playing too loudly for it to be heard. The French horn begins to laugh. We did learn one thing this year; the drummer is always right.

WIND ENSEMBLE

1991/92 has been an amazing year for the wind ensemble! From our early morning breakfast buffets, to our many concerts and performances, I think it is safe to say we all Rocked Around the Clock. As the year draws to a close, we have finally answered that age-old question, "How many Little Mermaid tunes can one wind ensemble do?" Many thanks to the Band Council and Mr. Redstone for going above and beyond the call of duty. Have a great summer and keep playing.

Thanks, Lynda Collins

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Symphony orchestra is an uplifting experience of new and exciting music. We get together and practice every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 7:30 a.m.

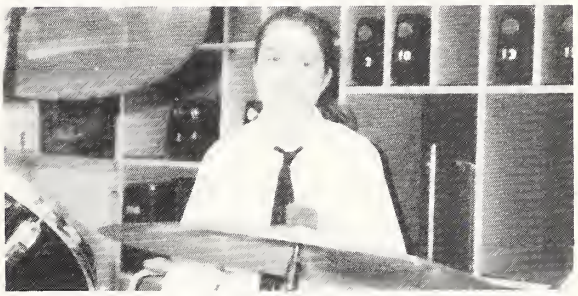
This is the largest Symphony Orchestra in the history of Branksome Hall and we are proud to be a part of it and excited be able to express our musical talents. In April, we will be participating in the annual music trip for the first time.

STAGE BAND

Stage band has really taken off this year. With more members and great enthusiasm we have kicked off to a great start. Our latest performance at the Children's Aid Christmas party was great and we all look foward to more like it! Thanks to everyeveryone.

Amanda Cliff

TENNIS



The Recreational Tennis Club met on Tuesdays (beginners) and Thursdays (Intermediate/Advanced) during the Fall term. Unfortunately the weather was cold and rainy so we did not get to play as often as we had hoped. Thank you Mlle. Popper, Mrs. Proctor, and everyone who came to play.

SQUASH

If there is one thing that a Branksome Squash Club member has, it is dedication. Every Monday and Wednesday for six weeks, Branksomites were spotted at the Bloor Valley Club improving their squash skills. Mrs. MacLellan taught us a lot about the game and I think whether you were a beginner or an advanced player, one could always learn something new. She encouraged us to play in a tournament. It was very successful and a lot of fun. The winners of the tournament received a Championship Squash Ball so that we were encouraged to keep up the game. Thank you Mrs MacLellan for your patience and assistance!

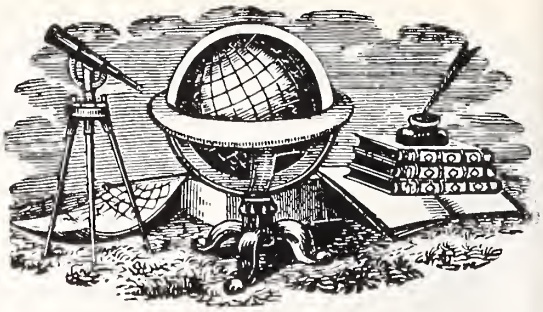
DUKE OF EDINBROUGH



Prince Philip would be proud! Once again the Duke of Edinbrough Program has an energetic group of girls who are eager to fulfill the four required challenges. Everyone has been busy volunteering their time to local organizations and hospitals, as well as completing her new skill and remaining physically active. The Expedition is the most exciting component of the program. Whether it is a canoe trip, a hike or a bike tour, everyone is geared up for this incredible adventure, that is completely organized by themselves. The program has been a great success this year, filled with many great experiences and challenges. Many thanks to Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Blake, who led the program this year with great enthusiasm and fresh ideas.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

Every Tuesday and Wednesday students, who are interested in photography applications and techniques meet to enhance their skills. Our classes are not structured, but are supervised to help each individual in her areas of interest. The class provides us all with a supportive, but critical environment. At the end of each term, we have a photography show of our favorite pieces. Each student who participates has an enormous feeling of satisfaction. Richard, thank you for your time, and sharing of knowledge.

Voices in the Wind

As I stand here overlooking my old home, now merely referred to as Lot 30294, it seems as though I am the only me who still cares. But how can that be? Am I the only one whose foundation for life was built here? How could my siblings become so enamoured with themselves and their lives that they forget the vows we made to remain together no matter what the future holds? Those cold December nights we spent huddled around the old pot-belly stove, drinking hot cocoa, remarking how fortunate we were to have each other. Did my sisters and brothers say all those things simple to pacify Ma and Pa? Maybe being the youngest, words of love murmured around the Shabbat table affected me the most.

Perhaps they are right. When I phoned each of them to help me convince City Hall that our precious home held too many memories to be destroyed, they all laughed saying that they were relieved to have that segment of their lives erased. I went to see my oldest brother who had always had a soft spot in his heart for me. I hardly recognized him in his three piece suit, talking on a phone shaped like a dollar sign. He hung up the phone and rumpled my hair calling me Yoda, the pet name he gave me when I failed to pronounce my name, Josie, at three years of age. We exchanged pleasantries and I eventually came to the point of my visit. Through my environmental organization I'd learned of an area just outside St. John's where the government intended to tear down a dozen old houses to build a new housing complex. My brother couldn't see my point. I informed him that our childhood sanctuary was one of these "completely unnecessary" houses that are to be torn down. My brother's tone of voice changed when he told me that this new development would be very profitable for Newfoundland's economy. I looked deep into his crystal blue eyes and realized that the tenderness and understanding that had gotten me through my first time without training wheels to my first date, were gone. In their place was a coldness that was totally foreign to me. It hit me then. Standing there in his office I realized, I was the only one who was not ashamed of my roots, of who I really am.

That was three weeks ago. Since then I have come to see my siblings' true colours. I now see their greed for the material wealth my family never possessed, and their nonchalance towards tradition, towards their family and religious convictions.

I flew back to the outskirts of St. John's to bid a final farewell to my house. The place that sheltered me from school and my fears. Without my brother's political clout my plea fell on deaf ears at City Hall.

As I stand here on a cold, damp afternoon, so typical of Newfoundland's weather, I watch the boats pull into the harbor after a successful day of fishing. My house rises majestically from the fog, too proud to be afraid of the crane poised beside her, ready for action. When I close my eyes I can still hear Pa calling after me to keep peddling while my brother ran behind me holding the seat of my bike on my first day without training wheels. My fragile mother appears to me and in her soothing manner tells me that the kids at school were only teasing, that I really don't look like Dumbo. My sisters taunt me for being such a brain and being unable to find a date for the prom outside of cousin Ernest.

All those memories captured in all those wonderful voices. Voices only used now to hire nannies and confirm business transactions. Voices from the past, fading over the years. Voices in the wind.

Calm Before the Storm

She was breathing heavily as she unlocked the front door of her four-room bungalow in a dirty corner of the world known as the Bains. She sheepishly looked around her and scurried into the faded yellow hallway like a mouse who had narrowly escaped the local house cat. She closed the door quickly and locked the deadbolt with a small sense of satisfaction which made her unconsciously smile.

She could tell from the overpowering silence of the house that he was not home and she let out a small sigh which made her chest quiver from the release of tension. She pulled off her green k-way jacket and hung it on the set of wall pegs in the hall. As she did, she caught a view of herself in the mirror beside the pegs, which caused her to take a double take and look closer. The reflection startled her like turning around in the subway and finding yourself being the object of a stranger's piercing glance. This was not her face. Not the face of the bright, bubbly young girl with a promising future that used to stare back at her. This was the face of cowardice, fear and violent poverty. It was the face of a frightened, useless wretch who had aged before her time. She tried to brush her disordered hair from her pale face; she tried to smile prettily and stand straighter but it changed nothing.

Suddenly, as if a mental dam had just cracked, she felt hot, red anger and intense pain and sorrow. Blood rushed to her face and tears silently formed salty pathways down her blotched cheeks. She could not stop the growing lump in her throat or her increasing tears, but more than that, she didn't want to.

She turned from the mirror in disgust and headed for the kitchenette down the hall. She flicked on the lights and noticed, like she always did, the horrible lime-green cabinets against the off-white walls. She took a tea towel from a drawer and dried her face and, still choked with anger and tears, filled the electric kettle with water. As she waited for the water to boil, she lent against fridge and made a conscious effort to calm down. She breathed in and out, in and out, until the lump in her throat had disappeared. She remembered that he had said that it wouldn't always be this way and that he was going to change, she would see, everything would be different. With this, the welt on her cheekbone flared with angry heat and her eyes narrowed with a new emotion, not sadness but rage.

Her thoughts were interrupted by the whistling of the kettle. She unplugged it and poured the steaming water into a mug with a tea bag. As the tea bag swam around the mug, dying the water brown, she thought of her mother. Her mother would say that all the world's problems could be solved with a good, steaming cup of tea. She drained the tea bag and put it in the sink, and walked out of the kitchen with her cup of comfort in her hands. Yes, tea was good.

She walked into the opposite room across the hall and curled up on the couch in front of the window and looked at the hazy moon from her darkened vantage point. Suddenly, from behind her, came a deep whisper.

"Where have you been?"

It was only a whisper but in her solitude it pounced upon her like the roar of a jungle beast. She spilled her tea.

"I ... I was visiting ... Cathy and the kids."

He turned on a table lamp and she saw him collapsed in a lounge chair. His glazed, red eyes stared at her from beneath his greasy brown hair. His mouth was set in a deep frown which was accentuated by his two days growth. His filthy work shirt lay open to the waist, revealing his pot belly which heaved like a dying creature with his labored breathing. Resting on his jean-covered knee was a bottle of cheap, local beer. She ironically thought to herself that he couldn't even be bothered to get drunk on the good stuff.

After two or three attempts, he rose from his chair and staggered over to her. She tried to look busy cleaning up the tea.

"How come I don't believe you", he slurred. "How come I don't believe you!" He was yelling now.

"I ... I don't ..", she started.

"Do you think I'm a fool?!", he screamed grabbing her throat and shaking her.

He pinned her to the couch and slapped her face reapeatedly while screaming like a man possessed.

"Do you ..", slap, ".. think..", slap, "I'm ..", slap, ".. a fool?", SLAP.

Her fear and rage returned. Her cheeks were burning and her sight was blurring as he continued to hit and choke her. She felt the mug in her hand and suddenly, with an almost godlike strength, she freed her arm and struck him down as the mug shattered into a thousand different pieces.

He fell onto the floor in front of the couch. She breathed in furiously and her vision cleared a little but still her cheeks burned with abused rawness. She lay on the couch for several minutes not caring whether he came at her again or not. When, with some newfound courage, peered over the edge of the couch. Her heart pounded. A crimson river ran from his temple and his breathing was short and hard but what frightened her the most was that his eyes were open. Open yet seeing nothing, frozen in their glazed, jealous stare. She looked around frantically and saw that the edge of the coffee table in front of her had blood on it.

It seemed like an eternity before the red and blue lights flashed through her living room window. When they found her lying on her couch over what appeared to be an unconscious man, she said nothing, only smiled at them. She smiled as she never had before and even when they took her away, her soul was consumed with joy.

A STORY OF WEIRD HUMANS

People that came to the kennel called me a black Lab. Whatever that meant I did not know or care, for nobody ever took me away from the kennel, except for one solitary man.

He struck me as odd. Usually the people that visited the kennel were very fussy about the breed, size and colour they wanted. This man merely said that he wanted to measure a dog for MIT. I did not think the man terribly bright. I didn't even need shoes; how come I needed mitts?

When asked exactly what MIT stood for, the man explained that it meant "maximum intake tolerance" - or, in plain English, a dog with an enormous appetite. The kennel guide, without hesitation, pointed his finger at me. How very insulting. I didn't think that I had a big appetite at all.

In a matter of minutes I was bundled off to a car and driven to a building with the man. Before entering, though, he struggled into what seemed to be a long white shirt. I thought that the way people dressed was getting tackier every day.

I was put onto a table slightly carsick and very suspicious. The room I was in was very large and bright. There were shelves and shelves with test tubes inside along with strange-smelling liquids in beakers. This place the man called a lab. Funny, I thought, to name a place after a dog. I had always thought that I myself was what people called a lab.

I was given food. The suspicion vanished, for it was good food, too. In fact, it was excellent. I ate, and ate, and ate. The food kept coming. I was full after two helpings.

But the man couldn't seem to get it through his head that I was full. The food kept coming, and coming, and ... coming. I was forced to eat when I was full, and when I absolutely could not take in another mouthful I was given a needle that made me hungry again. The man went through this procedure several times. I heard him talking to his colleagues as he stuffed me. It seemed like he was doing an experiment of whether weight loss could result from frantic exercising, and serious overeating. When the food was taken away at last, I felt a twinge of alarm. Clearly the man had other tortures in store.

I was right. I was made to jump over things, go on a treadmill and retrieve things. The whole "frantic exercising" thing went on for what seemed like days. Pretty soon I got to thinking as I exercised. Enough was enough.

When the man's back was turned I ran straight for a box of test tubes. A crash, a bang and an "ouch!" from one of the man's colleagues was what I heard. I then sprinted towards a burner. The man leapt after me. He missed me by a mile but nearly escaped being singed himself.

It was the colleague that finally cornered me. She picked me up and deposited me into the arms of the man. Then she told him that it was his responsibility to get me back to the kennel because he was the one who picked a mad dog.

So I was being sent back to the kennel after all! I was gloating by the time I got back to the familiar place. What a story I had to tell the other dogs. But, oh, how tired I was.

I dropped wearily to the ground. It had been an exhausting day.

During Another Autumn

I walk among the fallen leaves,
Wearing my cloak of black.
I pause to ponder these
Dead, faded colours
That crinkle beneath my heavy feet.
They feel not the pain.
It is like my walking over the corpses in the cemetery.
They can no longer feel
The tremble of the earth under which they lie.
Still,
Their souls cry out like the leaves that know
Their downfall is to come.
The fragile ones shudder when I pass over their Silent companions.
The weak sense their end is near.
For the breeze, with which they once danced,
Blows cold in warning and turns gusty.
The trees have lost their strength to nurture,
The sun's warmth is no match for the gale.
The clouds move in overhead.
Just as the souls lost faith in the bodies,
The remaining leaves surrender to
The whipping wind,
That makes me wrap my cloak closer to my frame.
I move on,
Exit the graveyard.
The rustle that seems to chase my heels,
As I pass by the wrought-iron gate,
Reminds me that
Sometime, during another autumn,
Someone shall step across my tomb
And question
The fall of the leaves.

High up in an infinite navy blue sky an impossibly bright star burned away, fueled by angels in robes made black with coal dust. Below it was a group of poor shepherds, in proper shepherd clothes, who hid their lambs and looked up at it in fear for what it might portend. A little way away were some caravans done up in sumptuous Middle Eastern luxury, the three men with dark skins and beards riding on camels. Then there were a lot of other angels, clean ones, with trumpets and golden hair, who thronged in angel fashion around a stable wherein, of course, was the Saviour, and Mary, and Joseph. But there were also some animals in the stable, which were much more appealing, picked out in marvellous detail with tiny glass eyes, and real hair for their various manes and tails.

Jesus had to have been born in a stable, because he was humble. Ursula's mother had told her that when she was very small. Ursula thought that it was a good thing that there was no room at the inn because then they might not have let in the shepherds, and the Christ child would not have had his gift from them, the little lamb. Also, she felt that the heat from the horses and mules and other animals was probably better than thin blankets and basins of hot water. Those did not seem to be very effective when a child was being born. When her nurse told her that her mother was going to have a baby, she thought they would have to bring in straw of some sort or that they would take her away somewhere else. She even looked in the sky for a new star but nothing seemed to have changed. Maybe that was because the baby had been dead, and the angels only lighted new stars for every new life. In any case, there was a lot of running back and forth along the corridors near her mother's room; she was supposed to stay in her room but she had crept out to see. One of the downstairs maids was taking away red stained water and bringing back fresh. She could hear her mother crying, the sound echoing from the end of the dark hall. Then she had gone back, and played with her only toy, and her favourite possession which was the miniature creche given to her a few Christmases ago. She wondered what had been different, what had gone wrong. So did the doctor, who said as much. So did her father, who did not say anything.

After that she did not see her mother often. She no longer took Ursula for walks in the gardens, or came to have tea with her in the nursery. In fact the only time she ever did see her was when she sometimes woke up in the night, and peering into the darkness could discern her mother's shape sitting by her and watching over her. After awhile she would go away moving silently like a ghost over the carpet, her eyes large in her pale face as she turned at the door to look back before she left. Ursula did not wish to understand her mother, and pretended to be asleep.

Gradually the atmosphere in the house became oppressive. Being built in the true gothic manner, it never allowed much light to penetrate its depths however now the perpetual gloom became stifling, and seemed even to spread. Ursula's father fled to London, seldom returning to his house, save for fleeting visits every few months to set the household accounts straight. These eventually stopped as he became addicted to London life and then to prostitutes and opium. Before he died he had reduced his capital inheritance to a quarter of what it was, but it was some time afterward before the servants discovered that their wages had no hope of payment. In the meantime, they were able to assist at their mistress' death, which happened in the springtime, as nature prepared to give birth to a new summer of trellised roses and fragrant flower beds. Ursula saw her before she died, and observed her drawn face and hollow eyes in the morning light. Her mother smiled at her, but seemed to look beyond her for someone who was not there. She thought for a minute, and then ran from the room, returning with the little lead model of the Christ child from her beloved creche, and pressed it into her mother's hand. Her mother smiled again, and whispered to her to take care of her little brother. Ursula nodded, and then was led from the room by her nurse.

The house was sold, and Ursula was given over to the care of some poorer relations, who lived in the city of Manchester. She grew to be a serious, good natured girl, amid amiable chaos, there being six children in the house, and only a very limited staff. She kept her creche always beside her bed, and it was the only possession she had from her childhood home. She would tell her younger cousins stories about the shepherds and the kings, and explain the nature of camels to them again and again, and how it was that the star shone so brightly right over the stable. The only time she was ever unhappy was when the youngest of them pulled the tail off one of the horses.

Eventually it came to pass that their parish was taken over by a young clergyman, who had very enlightened ideas on the subject of reforming the savages of the East. He offended many of the resident matrons, however, by refusing to take his tea anywhere but at Ursula's relations. When the two were married, they moved to India in order to put his theories into effect.

Ursula found an immediate understanding with the country, for it was as wonderful a place as she had imagined her three kings to have journeyed from, and was delighted when she saw a true camel. Together they made a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, a voyage fraught with dangers, none of which seemed great to her after she realized that there she would be brought to bed of her first child, the thought of which terrified her. Her husband was terribly excited, and she could not explain her fear to him, or why it was that she did not like to stay in the inn, or have a doctor, or basins of hot water. She really had no idea of what was going to happen to her, but her husband by some miracle managed to find a good English midwife, and in the end she was safely delivered of a healthy boy, much to her surprise and relief.

They remained in Jerusalem for two months. They would have stayed longer but a Christian missionary was not very well received in the Holy Land in those times, and there was still much to do in India. During that time, Ursula was wholly taken up with her child, giving him the love and attention of two mothers. At night, she would gaze out of her window at the indigo sky, and the silhouettes of the minarets pointing to the stars high above, singing the songs shepherds sing to their lambs in winter. She had looked into the sky on the night he was born to see if there was a new star, but realized that she would never be able to tell. How there was enough fuel to keep so many of them lit at the same time was amazing. She thought of the street lights in Manchester, and the men who went around at dusk in working overalls and lit them all, one by one. Perhaps they were angels, who chose to live among men and light the earth, instead of the heavens. Perhaps there was another lamp lit, instead of a star, when her boy had entered the world. Unlike Mary, she would never know precisely which one it was, or where it was. It did not seem to matter, somehow. Ursula stared at her figure of Mary, which had travelled with her along with the rest of the necessary dramatist personae to make up the story. She looked tired, Ursula thought, and even lonely, although Joseph was right behind her, the very essence of the expectant father, and the animals crowded close. Her lap, however, lay empty. A feeling of guilt came over Ursula. She held her child, and thought of what it would be if he were ever taken from her, even if he were made of lead. She gazed at her for awhile, lost in thought and memory. Then she took the lamp from the group of shepherds, and placed it in Mary's arms. Then they both relaxed, and smiled.

Oh wilful, vile and dastardly bloke
Thy crinkles steam, thy stook unstoke,
Such lineaments in fiscal jar,
Oh! plumb my wraith-like choice mentor.

A foot-like, toed, and oblong shape,
But then, nay me, not so, displain,

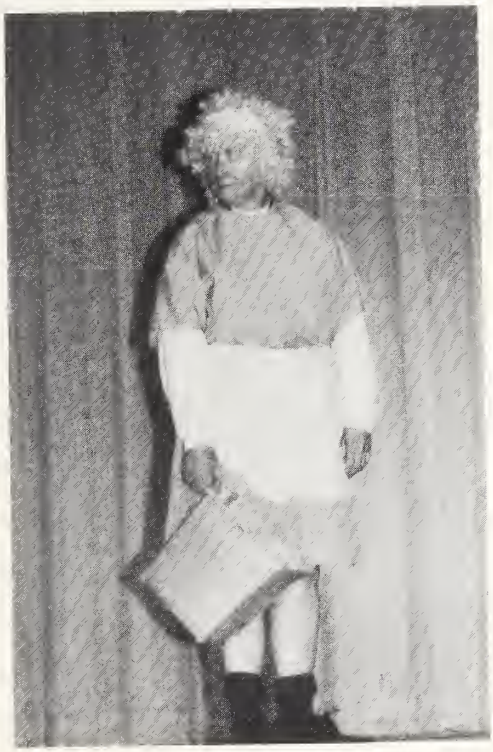
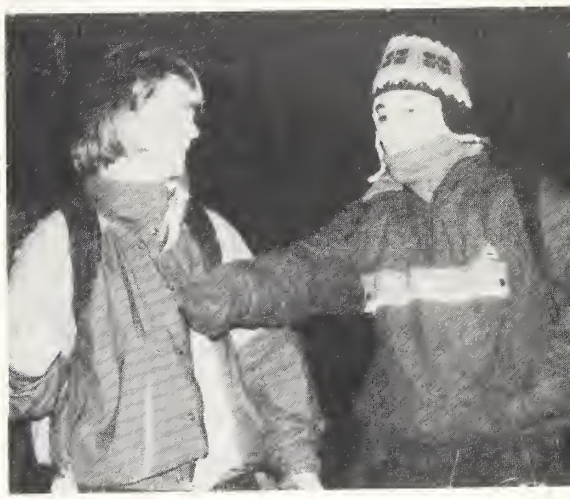
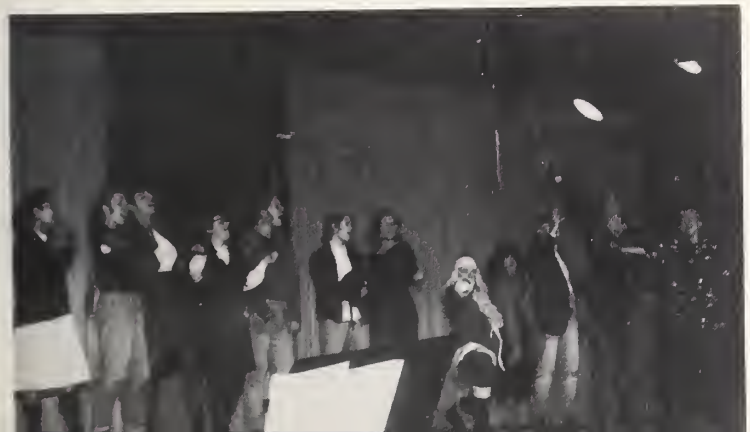
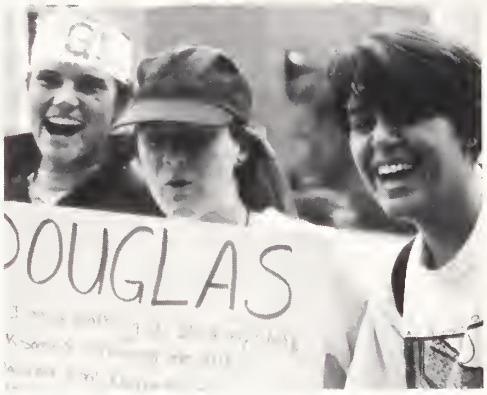
CHRISTMAS ASSEMBLY

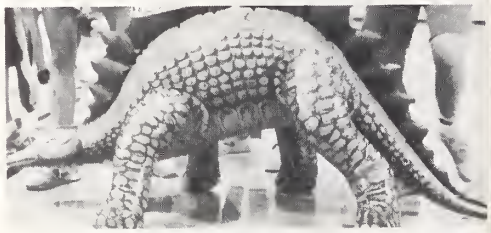






CLAN EVENTS





The word "CLAN" means something different and unique for each and every person who belongs on one here at BH. For some, Clans represent a way to meet a wide variety of exciting people and the opportunity to participate in various forms of friendly competition. Others relate clans to wild Wednesday homerooms, win lose or draw and all round good times.

Clans are sometimes special that only true Branksome folk understand. How many times have you had to explain that the name on your tie pin is actually your Clan's name and not your boyfriends.

From Farm Spud and Floor Hockey to Clan Relays and Scattergories, Clans definitely have something for everyone. Special thanks to Mrs. MacLellan the clan staff advisor and two thumbs up to the eight incredible clan chieftains: Dan, Wendy, Lynn, Sash, Lisa, Fowlie, Hill and Carolyn. It is the organization and enthusiasm of these gals and many others that make clans what they are.

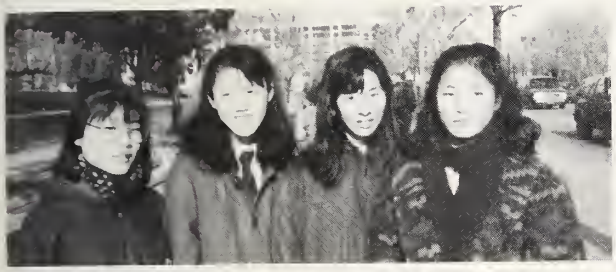
OTTAWA TRIP



ADDRESS TO AN AUSTRALIAN ASSEMBLY

It is not easy for me to stand here and tell you exactly what it is like being a Canadian Indian. It is really difficult because instantly you are placed in the middle of two cultures. There is the Canadian culture where you watch The Simpsons and Twin Peaks, play tennis and ski every December on your holidays (July here). I do all these things and enjoy them as you do, but when I or any other native child is born we are born into what is called the circle of life and your family is very important.

I am a member of the Potami nation. My mother is a member of the Eagle Clan and my father was of the Wolf Clan, but I am a member of the Eagle Clan like my mother.

Among our tribes the Leadership in clans, which are very important, are matrilineal, which means all the women make all the major decisions about things. When a man marries a woman he becomes a member of her clan and is accepted into her family. There are eight clans and everyone in the tribe is a member. There are the Deer, Turtle, Snake, Bear, Pheasant, Wolf, Fish and Eagle Clans.

Each clan has a different responsibility within the tribe and the women ensure that these are learned. Grandparents are very important to native people. They teach you stories which are our living history, the language and about our different arts. Parents teach you to be responsible, to respect what is around you and how to take care of yourself. In our families it not just your parents that you learn from, it is from everybody around you.

In Canada there are about half a million native people. They live either on a reserve or in a town or city. In Toronto alone 100,000 native people live in the city. Until I was eight years old I lived on Birch Island, which is an Indian Reserve in Northern Ontario. I moved to Toronto and found myself going through culture shock. This happens to every Indian person when they move to a big city. It is hard to get used to not having as many of your own people around but the hardest thing is to get used to white people because you think differently, you act differently and it takes awhile to understand things in a different setting like that. Many Indian kids end up turning to drinking, stealing cars and other pointless crimes like that because adjusting is too hard. These are some of the problems that we face. On the other hand also there is a great pride that comes with being Indian and so many more people are realizing this now. When I was younger it was not the best thing to be Indian. People were really prejudiced and the general messages that we got from things like TV and newspapers was that Indians were really dumb and untrustworthy and you would never get anywhere if you were an Indian. Now I think people are not going to listen to those kinds of lies anymore, and more Indian people are participating in our culture and are proud of it. We have many different types of art and they are all expressed differently across North America. There are painters, craftspeople who make everything from silver and turquoise jewellery to leatherwork, to modern fashions. The most interesting and popular native art form would have to be dance. I have been a dancer for 13 years now and I travel to competitions across Canada and America. When I return home in two weeks I will be travelling to Arizona for the largest dance competition in America. There were 5,000 dancers there last year and about 25,000 to 30,000 spectators at night.

I hope what I have just told you helps you to know and understand a bit more about native peoples in America and Canada.

THE CO-OP PROGRAMME

Sabena Strenge

Alex Ejlerskov

This year, Branksome has introduced the co-op program. It offers its students real world, on the job experience in a field in which they are interested, helping them make informed career choices and decisions.

As one of the pioneers in this program, I worked at an inner city junior public school in a special education class. I worked with and taught kids with learned disabilities and behavioural problems. Sabina, the other student, worked in a law firm for half the year, and then in the Toronto courts.

The program gave both of us countless opportunities, positive experiences and opened up the doors to many careers. It has helped make us more mature and confident, and better able in handling responsibility. It has been, to say the least, an incredible experience for both of us, and one neither of us will forget.
